

Delta suspends additional Latin America flights and Los Angeles-Sydney

March 16, 2020

Following self-quarantine restrictions issued by the Australian government, Delta is temporarily suspending service from Los Angeles to Sydney beginning March 18 through April 11.

Additionally, governments across Latin America have also issued travel restrictions.

| Routes | Actions |
|--------------------------------------|--|
| Los Angeles-Sydney | Last flight from Los Angeles on Tuesday, March 17 Last flight from Sydney on Thursday, March 19 |
| Atlanta - Buenos Aires | Last flight from Atlanta on Sunday, March 15 Last flight from Buenos Aires on Monday, March 16 |
| Atlanta - San Salvador | Reduced to twice a week from March 19 - April 1 |
| Atlanta - Guatemala City | Last flights both directions on Monday, March 16 Resumes Monday, April 20 |
| Atlanta - Tegucigalpa/San Pedro Sula | Suspended starting Monday, March 16 Resumes Monday, March 23 |
| Atlanta - Roatan | Suspended starting Monday, March 16 Saturday-only service resumes March 28 |
| Atlanta - Panama City | Last flights both directions on Saturday, March 21 Resumes Wednesday, April 1 |
| Atlanta - Lima | Last flights both directions on Monday, March 16 Resumes Wednesday, April 1 |
| Boston - Aruba | Last flights both directions on Saturday, March 21 |
| Minneapolis/St.Paul - Aruba | |
| Atlanta - Aruba | Last flights both directions on Wednesday, March 25 |
| New York-JFK - Aruba | Resumes Wednesday, April 1 |

We will continue to quickly adjust service, as needed, in response to government travel directives.